

Name: Ho Ka Yin

Age: 8

Parent's name: Ms Lui Man Chi

Name of child's school: Diocesan Girls' Junior School

Kylie Comes to the Rescue

"Kylie is a heroine!" Most of the kids said that after they experienced Kylie's secret super powers. "Hooray!" The kids cheered after Kylie helped them.

The sun was shining down with a big smile. The street stared at the crowd of people chatting loudly. The cars waved at everybody near them. Friendly schools were welcoming kids coming back. Kylie was playing with a pop-it as usual. Suddenly, she noticed that a kid called Milo had some problems with his exam. He had stress, and kept throwing tantrums. Milo was fidgeting so hard with his hands that they got numb. After that, he kept muttering to himself, and he kept walking around the classroom. Milo let out a low groan. Eager to give a pop-it to Milo, Kylie turned invisible with her superpowers, and she hopped to Milo in a happy mood. "Milo!" Kylie whispered. "Who are you?" Milo wondered. "Oh, sorry. I forgot to show myself." Saying that, Kylie appeared in front of Milo in a puff of smoke. Milo jumped back, shocked. Kylie put her hand in her pocket and took something out. "A shimmering tips pop-it! That's very rare! It's for me?" Milo marveled. "Yup!" Kylie replied coolly. The magic of the pop-it was that each time a child popped one, a tip would be given to the child. After Milo heard this news, the corners of Milo's mouth rose. Only Milo could see it himself. Milo gave Kylie lots of thanks and continued doing his exam without any anxiety. Kylie promised Milo she would give a hand whenever he had any difficulties. Milo wowed quietly.

In the afternoon, Kylie took a glance at a house. Inside, Kylie caught sight of another kid called Kyle. He is stressed like carrying rocks on his shoulders. Kylie turned transparent like she was wearing an invisibility cloak. She found out that there was a mountain of homework and a sea of revision sheets! Kylie tried not to frighten Kyle and said gently, "Hi, Kyle. I am here to help you with your homework and revision." Kyle looked around with loads of questions shown on his face. Stretching his hand to try to feel Kylie, she showed herself in a bolt of lightning. Kylie then gave Kyle homework and revision tips. Kyle jumped high like a bunny. Kyle immediately did all his homework and finished it in a second. After saying farewell to Kyle, Kylie gave him an invisible pen which could write all the correct answers.

After a blink of an eye, it was already evening. Kylie took out her super vision glasses and put them on. Everything was normal except for a kid called Nory who was hiding with tension. She was scared of her mum and dad getting mad about her test. Nory got only 10 marks out of 50. Shivering like she was in Antarctica, covering herself in a big blanket and then pacing back and forth in her room, Nory did not dare to go out of her room. Kylie came without no one noticing. Sprinting to Nory's room, Kylie introduced herself and explained to her that she did not need to be afraid. Kylie quickly turned her mum and dad's angry voice into a sweet one. Nory grinned with happiness and thanked Kylie. "Next time, you need to study hard, otherwise I would not help you!" Nory smiled in agreement.

Being a super heroine is like shooing away scary insects for kids with bravery, patting and bathing miserable stray dogs with care, and hugging and kissing little children with love. Using her kindness to help people brought a lot of satisfaction much more than Kylie could have possibly imagined. Kids thought Kylie was an adult but actually she was a kid. That's why she always understood how children felt.

By Kylie Ho